About Us

Animals Water Bowl Project

Vision

The vision of AWBP Trust is to create a platform where every animal gets clean drinking water round the clock throughout the year, and connect humans with animals through continuous education programs and innovate animal-centric products.

Our organization is dedicated to uplifting animal welfare and rights through three key areas: Water, Education, and Invention.

Activities

Explore our full list of activities and join us in making a difference for animals everywhere.

Impactful initiatives

Since 2017, we have undertaken several impactful initiatives:

- Distributed over 7164 cement bowls to provide clean water year-round to all animals. Approximately 1,00,000 animals now have access to clean drinking water daily.
- Educated around 10 million individuals across various age groups through online and offline events.
- Conducted over 161 on-field events at locations like public parks, educational institutions, and corporate offices.
- Expanded our animal water bowl initiative to 14 districts in India, with plans to cover more regions.
- Released second edition book - The Journey of Bunty & Chinku, an educational book on community building through animal welfare and rights. So far, over 1703 copies have been distributed to schools and others. Aiming to make this book as a school curriculum.
- Organized 7 PAN India competitions, reaching over 500,000 people to raise awareness.
- Released 3 music albums on platforms like Spotify, iTunes, etc., to create awareness.
- Initiated our first animal club initiative in a college.
- Joined hands with nizampet municipal corporation, Telangana.

Message

Founder: Lakshman Molleti

Coexistence is the Key to a Better World

As we witness poverty, pollution, and violence increasing rapidly across the world, it is important to recognize that these challenges are not separate from us—they are a reflection of our collective actions and choices. Each one of us has a role to play in shaping a more compassionate and responsible society.

At AWBP Trust, we believe that meaningful change begins with awareness and the kind of content we create and share within our communities. When we consciously choose to spread positivity, empathy, and responsibility, we begin to influence not just individuals, but the larger social environment around us.

This transformation becomes truly powerful when people of all age groups reconnect with animals and nature. Through simple yet consistent acts of animal seva, individuals develop a deeper sense of compassion, patience, and responsibility. These values naturally extend into how we treat our surroundings, our communities, and each other.

When humans learn to coexist with kindness and awareness, communities begin to heal. And through this collective shift, we can gradually reduce the challenges that society faces today.

Participation

In memory of Raju, AWBP Trust organizes the PAW Nationwide Competition annually between August and October, as part of our educational programs. The competition happens in three categories: Poetry, Artwork, and Writing, focusing on topics related to community building through animal welfare and rights. Participants aged 6 years and above are welcome to join the competition.

Since 2020, we have been organizing a nationwide competition, and each year, participation has steadily increased. The participants range in age from 6 to 60 years, and it's encouraging to see involvement from diverse groups, including students, parents, teachers, and various professionals.

audience reach: ~2,00,000/ Participants: 3235

Topics

The topics for the PAW2025 competition were centered around promoting community building through animal welfare and rights. Participants were offered a choice of five topics, from which they selected one that aligned with their interest in the category they competed in.

1 Breaking the Bond: Examining the Negative Impacts of Removing Animals (Dogs, Cats, Cattle, etc.) from Communities on Humanity, the Environment, and Animal Welfare — and Identifying Sustainable Solutions to Protect and Promote Coexistence.

2 The vital role of aquatic animals in the environment, the challenges they face, and the need to protect them by adopting a compassionate approach focused on animal welfare, ahimsa, and a vegan lifestyle.

3 Cruelty and exploitation of sheep and chickens for human use and the exploration of compassionate alternatives by protecting their welfare and rights.

4 Importance Of Eating Nutritionally Balanced Plant-Based Food : Various Affordable Vegan Foods Which Can Be Prepared At Home And Which Are Rich In Proteins, Fiber, Fats, and Carbohydrates.

5 Identify two or more problems faced by aquatic, aerial, or land-based animals, both in urban/ rural space and present a detailed, animal-centric innovative solution to address them effectively.

PAW2025 Team

Our team did an outstanding job of promoting the event to a larger audience, dedicating over 45 days of continuous effort. Our team was actively involved in various activities, including creating short films and digital flyers, sharing posters across digital platforms and personal networks, visiting educational institutions, meeting with government officials, calling participants, and addressing participant inquiries.

Team members are Lokesh, Sreecharan, Akhila Ram, Hiranya Das Kaki, Praveen Gurrala, Akarsha Alapati, Lakshman Molleti, Raju Molleti (our desi dog).

Philanthropists, Sponsors, Compassion Partners

We successfully engaged over 3,500 participants, for reaching an audience of more than 200,000 across India. This achievement would not have been possible without the invaluable support of our sponsors and philanthropists. Our sponsors strongly believed in the event and the positive impact it is making in the community by promoting animal welfare and rights.

Our event philanthropists, sponsors and compassion partners are Akarsha Alapati, Raghu Yalamanchili, Praveen Gurrula, Jayashree Umesh, Dhamma Tales, GRD Institutions, Stray Animal Foundation Of INDIA, Project DAYA, SHARAN, FIAPO, Ahimsa Land, Ubuntuverse, Peedu's People

Participants Feedback

The aim of the PAW competition is to engage participants in animal welfare and rights by encouraging them to deeply explore the topics they work on, ultimately fostering a sense of responsibility toward animals. Few feedbacks shared here.

Harsh Nath Jha, Delhi

I have learned how powerful creative expression can be in addressing sensitive issues and sparking dialogue. Writing for a specific theme pushed me to think more deeply, not just about words and rhythm, but also about the emotions, values, and social impact behind them. It taught me to balance artistry with responsibility. Also, how to use poetry as both an aesthetic form and a voice for compassion, awareness, and change.

Krishna Vamshi Yelpula, Telangana

This competition was a wonderful way to make us think deeply about animals and their feelings. Writing my poem encouraged me to see the world from an animal's perspective—their hope, trust, and need for love. It helped me understand their needs and express empathy through words. The theme inspired creativity while also teaching compassion and respect for all living creatures. It made me reflect on how our actions affect animals and how we can care for them better.

Rutu Milind Save, Maharashtra

Through this competition, I learned to approach animal welfare issues with deeper empathy and thorough research, going beyond surface-level facts to uncover real stories like the Delhi street-dog case. It strengthened my discipline in balancing originality, creativity, and factual accuracy, while honing my ability to use imagery, quotes, and structure to make my writing compelling and memorable. The experience highlighted the power of words in shaping public awareness about compassion and coexistence. I found the competition's themes socially relevant and thought-provoking, and I appreciated the clear rules that ensured fairness. For future editions, providing brief feedback from judges, sharing winning entries, or hosting a short webinar on writing or animal welfare could further enrich participants' learning.

Amaan Quasim, Tamilnadu

Participating in PAW2025 gave me a deeper understanding of the fragile bond between humans and animals and how urbanization, neglect, and exploitation affect both animals and society. I learned about sustainable practices like adoption, sterilization, and plant-based diets, which protect animals while benefiting humans, and the experience made me more compassionate and motivated to advocate for coexistence. The competition was well-organized, inclusive, and inspiring, and adding global participation or interactive workshops could make it even more impactful.

Dr. Dharmpal Singh, West Bengal

I learned that even small acts of kindness can bring big change, and storytelling becomes stronger when mixed with real facts and data. This competition made me think more deeply about responsibility and coexistence. I liked the freedom to express ideas on real issues in my own way. It encouraged me to be both creative and practical while writing.

Jayvardhan Abhinandan Debaje, Maharashtra

My biggest takeaway was a deeper connection to the mission of the AWBP Trust. I learned that every individual has a role to play in advocating for animal rights. This competition showed me that I can use my skills in writing to contribute to a cause I care about. It was a powerful reminder that creativity can be a force for positive change and that raising awareness is the first step toward building a more compassionate society. Participating in this competition taught me to see the world from an animal's perspective. Before I started, I hadn't fully considered the complex challenges animals face in urban and rural environments. The research I did for my submission opened my eyes to the importance of animal welfare and the need for all of us to be more compassionate in our daily lives. I learned that even small, innovative ideas can make a huge difference in promoting coexistence. This type of competition should go on international stage so as to make difference globally.

Faisana N, Kerala

I learned that animals are part of our lives and we should care for them and live with them. This competition is more than just a competition, it is a chance to learn, to create, and to spread awareness.
